Administrator's Column

Character is to be valued far above personal gain. An example of this is the life of Uzziah (2 Chronicles 26:5, 16). Uzziah's reign began very strong and ended in disgrace. At first, his inner circle exerted significant influence for good and the Lord prospered him. When he later neglected godly spiritual counseling, his priorities shifted to personal success rather than the things that delighted God's heart. The result was a sad ending to a promising start. As you raise your children, be reminded that the choices they make will almost always reflect their true character. (from the Maxwell Leadership Bible)
