Administrator's Column

According to CSE (A Magazine for Christian School Educators Vol. 21 #1), "Research reveals that children are not opposed to spirituality and that their parents actually provide the greatest influence upon their spiritual journey". Our job as Christian school educators is to come alongside our families and reinforce what is being taught at home. If a biblical worldview isn't being modeled at home, children are confused. We appreciate our partnership with you as we support you in your God-given role: training the next generation of Christian leaders.

Blessings,
Dr. Peggy Polson
