Administrator's Column

Last week, I shared thoughts from one of our international students. The same student also shared with me how fortunate our American students have it. They may take for granted living in this country, having all of the freedoms and opportunities citizenship provides. She, on the other hand, is on a student visa. Planning to one day become a U.S. citizen, there are obstacles and challenges that most of our students will never face. Maybe it explains her "attitude of gratitude" - trusting God for everything, especially her future!

Blessings,
Dr. Peggy Polson
