Administrator's Column

I recently ran across this statement in a Camp IdRaHaJe flyer about a summer program called Rooted, and it is definitely concerning: The average teen spends nine hours a day in front of a personal device, computer or television. The culture is nurturing our kids in such a way that has led them to be rooted in media, consumerism, narcissism, individualism and fluid identity. We want to work equally hard to reclaim our youth and root them in a deep knowledge of who Christ truly is and who Christ says they truly are.

Blessings,

Dr. Peggy Polson
